THE TRIBUNE.

Political Magnanimity.

We copy the following paragraph from the Christiua Politician, published at Cincinnati, and edited by Rev. Wm. H. Brisbane, a Baptist elergyman, formerly of South Carolina, who emancipated his slaves some years ago and is now an active member of the 'Liberty Party' than by the Loco-Focos. If that he was defeated at the late election; and these slanders were circulated with no less zeal by the 'Liberty Party' than by the Loco-Focos. If that party, ia fact, had not given currency through its lecturers and presses to the grossest falsehoods, Mr. Clay would now be President of the United States and the feul plot of Annexation would have been defeated for ever. There is a pang of bitterness in this thought that tempts us to speak with burning severity, but we forbear.

Shamert: —Whatever may have been Mr. Clay's prisoned and the subject at Richmond. Kr. It will be an about the following remarks of the Farmers' care and crimery interest.

Shamert: —Whatever may have been Mr. Clay's prisoned and the following remarks of the Farmers' care and every prisoned in this city, by C. M. Clax and others, bur on prefection, have thought it best to act upon the principle that "anglicit for the day is the cit thereof," and that when the paper makes it is appearance and avove more fully its principles and objects, it will be time enough to take upon the periociple that "anglicitation of the paper, and Mr. Clay particularly, in an attitude the subject, more especially as we might place those who may engage with him will introduce may be enough to be concerned in the publication of the paper, and Mr. Clay particularly, in an attitude the subject in this elicy the day with a device of the paper, and Mr. Clay particularly, in an attitude the subject in this elicy the certification of the paper, and Mr. Clay particularly, in an attitude the subject in this elicy the certification of the paper, and Mr. Clay particularly, in an attitude the subject in this elicy thereof." and therefore severity, but we forbear.

Since the foregoing was in type, we have severity, but we forbear.

Shamerut:—Whatever may have been Mr. Clay's private character, and however it may have afforded justifiable reasons for opposing his elevation to the Presidency, now that he is no longer a candidate before us, it is indeed for the purposes of partisan denunciation. At any time, even when Mr. Clay was before the people for their suffrages, no man ought to have been justified in pronouncing him the 'Backley of Kentucky,' as Mr. Flinn recently expressed himself in our House of Representatives. At any time it was a libel; and although moral considerations prevented many from voting for Mr. Clay, yet slander alone could place him in the same category with 'black legs'. Neither politically nor morally have I ever sympathised with Mr. Clay, but I should feel ashamed of myself, if in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed of myself, if in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed of myself, if in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed of myself, if in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed of myself, if in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed of myself, if in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed of myself, if in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed of myself, if in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed to myself, if in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed to myself, it in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed to myself, it in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed to myself, it in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed to myself, it in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed to myself, it in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed to myself, it in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed to myself, it in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed to myself, it in a hasty moment, I should teel ashamed to myself, it in a hasty moment, a problem to review, but no man has a right to triffic with the private character of a private citizen, and he who does it emphiliated to review, but no man has a right to triffic with the private character of a private citizen, and he who

How the Poor Live.

It is not at all uncommon to meet sleek, well and comfortable people who really believe that are is no considerable distress among the Poor the people, without agitation, without excitement, without the people, without agitation, without excitement, without agitation, without excitement, without agitation, without excitement, without agitation, without agitation and the proper spirit we see no good reason why it should not be done as well as at any fource time. Our wish is to see it brought fully before the people, without agitation, without agitation agit fed, comfortable people who really believe that there is no considerable distress among the Poor except what is occasioned by their own idleness, improvidence or dissipation! To show how cruelly mistaken is this notion, we make the following transcript from the most recent records of the Marriners' Family Industrial Society, instituted for the relief of the needy families of Scamen. The wri-

Mrs. H. Sallor's widow—sick with dropsy—part of the time able to sit up and sew: has two children under cleven years of age.

Mrs. S. Sallor's widow—in feeble health, with five children all too young to work.

Mrs. E. Sallor's wife—husband an invalid—has four children—is a good seamstress, and if supplied with work at our prices, could sustain herself and family.

Mrs. O. Sallor's widow—in feeble with work at our prices, could sustain herself and family.

Church Robbed.—The Catholic Church in this village was broken into, on Sunday night last, and the plate, Friest's dress &c., carried off. An attempt was also made to fire the Church. The Church lists and other papers were set on fire in a chest, where, from the want of air, the papers only burnt. [Oswego Whig. Mrs. O. Sailor's widow, with an infant too young to Corporeal Punishment in Schools.

To the Editor of The Tribune:

Having been much interested, at a recent examination by the County Superintendent of District School No. 3, Tenth Ward, I desire through the medium of your paper to give publicity to a few facts. There were present 1,050 children, 461 of whom were in the Primary Department. give publicity to a few facts. There were present 1,050 children, 461 of whom were in the Primary Department. The examination of the several Departments was bighly satisfactory, giving evidence that the children were well instructed by their respective teachers. The happy comtenances of the children spoke volumes in favor of the discipling of the School, which is that of moral snasion. Corporal punishment has been banished from most of the departments, proving indisputably that the interesting fact, and one which I believe will give pleasure to those who desire to see children treated as reasoning rendures. This is one of the few Schools where the monitorial system is not in force; each child is under the instruction of teachers carefully selected. The school-house (one of the fleest in the City) proves that the Ward officers are faithful, and deserve the thanks of the commanity for the able manner in which they have discharged their duty. Mr. Clay's Anti-Slavery Paper. GRAHAM HOUSE-NEW ARRANGEMENT.-ROS

The proposal of Cassius M. Clay to establish an Anti-Slavery journal in Kentucky is not as favora bly received by the press of that State as we could wish, though we cannot help indulging the hope that there is a strong undercurrent of opinion in his favor which will make itself felt in due time. The onto State Journal says it is reported that Mr. Clay bly received by the press of that State as we could Ohio State Journal says it is reported that Mr. Clay has 300 subscribers in Lexington alone. The most triumphant success attends its administration.

Read the following remarkable cases:

A lady, residing in Norfolk street, was scriously afflicted with Piles; so great was her suffering that, to use her own expression, life was a burden; for four weeks she had been attended by one of our most eminent Physicians, without the least benefit. Satisfied that it was an aggravated case of Piles, I prescribed the Electuary; two boxes were used. Skx months after, the same lady called on me to prescribe for another complaint, and then informed me that she was perfectly cured of the Piles by the two boxes, and had experienced no return since.
